Student athletes will excel more in school than non-student athletes. This will happen because student athletes have to manage their time with their sports, school, and other activities.

detail 1

This problem of managing their time almost forces them to become organized and more time efficient.

thesis

Here in Pennsylvania there have been problems with fire arms, so there should be more restrictive gun control laws.

To begin with, if there are more restrictive gun laws, then there will be less problems with them. An example will be less shootings and illegal gun dealings, and any other ways that they would be misused. Furthermore, anyone who currently owns or has a possession of a fire arm should be forced to get proper licensing or face fines and years in prison. With proper licensing and permits in effect, PA will become a safer place to live, neighborhoods will be safer for children and others, and education will increase throughout PA. In conclusion, with stricter gun control laws in Pennsylvania there will be less incidents and issues happening in PA.

Vegetarians are healthy eaters. Since vegetarians do not eat meat, eggs, and dairy products they eat fruit and vegetables. Vegetarians are limited on what they can eat. Eating healthy foods give you many nutrients to have a healthy diet. Foods like tofu, vegetables, fruit, and noodles. Vegetarians are healthy eaters because they eat fruits and vegetables, and they have to have a healthy diet with nutrients.

Paragraph Essay Assignment:

Initiating a later start time to the school day would produce more student production and focus then having an earlier start time to the school day.

For example, according to a study produced by the Minneapolis Public School District, a slight improvement in grades occurred because of changing the school start time to 8:40 from the original time of 7:15am. This statement ultimately proves that when a later start time to school is initiated, improvement in grades and overall performance occurs. Furthermore, according to a recent poll conducted by the National Sleep Foundation, 60% of children under the age of 18 complained of being tired during the school day and 15% reported falling asleep at school during the year. When initiating a later start time to the school day, the likelihood of students being tired would decrease and the likelihood of students falling asleep would decrease. In summarization, when initiating a later start time to the school day, more student production and focus is being achieved than having an earlier start time to the school day. Improvement in grades and overall performance would be achieved and the likelihood of a student to be tired, fall asleep, and ultimately not pay attention would decrease.

Cell phones should not be used in schools because it may disrupt education. For example, students may forget to turn off their device and it may ring in class. This will create a distraction to everyone in the room and derail the lesson plan. In addition, if the student has a smart phone, it could be used as a cheating device during exams. This would be disruptive to the student who is cheating and possibly others who might see it. Cell phones should not be used in school because they may go off in class, be a distraction to others and could be used as a cheating device on exams.

Having a college degree really helps you get a job and a good income. As shown by the Bureau of Labor Statistics population survey, 10.3% of people with just a high school diploma are unemployed. But with an Associates degree that percentage bumps down to 7.0%. That's a 2.6% difference that is very significant and may seem like a small number but it's equal to approximately 182 million people according to world population. In addition the average a high school graduate a month gets a week is $620. For a person with an Associates degree gets an average of $767 weekly. That's $147 difference and in a year that is a $1764 difference which is a huge difference. Furthermore getting a college degree drastically helps you get a better job (and actually get a job) and a better income later in your job career.

Controversial Issue

Same-sex marriage should be legalized in all states. In the United States, 9 of 50 states currently allow same-sex marriage. This reminds me of the Civil War, where people and their beliefs in this nation are separated by location. In the Civil War, slaves ran to the North for freedom, and in same-sex marriage cases, same-sex couples ran to those 9 states. As Abraham Lincoln put it, "A house divided against itself cannot stand." Also, according to Barack Obama in an interview on same-sex marriages with ABC, "[Same-sex marriage is] also the golden rule — you know, treat others the way you would want to be treated." We don't want others talking about our personal life, so why should we judge same-sex couples? In order to keep our country united and our private lives to ourselves, same-sex marriage must be made legal in the USA.
